

A PRAYER OF Sovereignty

Dear Me, My self and I, may this be my moment of truth. I choose anew and embrace the path I choose to walk on. I stand firm in my commitment to myself and bare witness to my own rebirthing power. My weakness, my fierce determination and all of my virtues are mine to walk with and mine to explore. I am whole and I am free, I am complete and I am freedom. Within me are the answers I seek and inside my soul I find the questions I wish to ask.

I choose to embrace my own pain and make my own mistakes. I wish to grow with faith as I see the path is illuminated as I take my steps upon it. I fear not my own fears; I shy not from my own limitations. I am centered within my presence and sing my song into my infinite skies. I call upon and invoke the presence of my fiery spirit, may it rise to the heavens and dive the depths of my oceanic nature.

Dear God, my past is laced with moments of doubt and moments of fear. With times I have chosen to determine my sense of self with the opinion of others. I have allowed my fragility and my sense of uncertainty to take me outwards, finding my center with the validation of an external source. I no longer wish to live my life within these choices. I choose anew. I affirm and declare my own liberation and my sense of sovereignty.

I have no one to blame, not even myself. It was all a part of a Divine Plan; helping me grow, helping me evolve. Here, at this now, I stand firm in who I am and who I choose to become. I spread my wings and embrace my angelic nature. I shine my light and spread my all-encompassing love. Compassion and kindness are my guiding stars. Gratitude is my sun and forgiveness is my moon.

I do not fear to ask for help, I do not fear trusting my brothers and sisters for they are but a reflection of my growing mind. Together we empower each other to our greatness; together we invite peace and understanding. I ask from fullness, I ask out of faith. My open arms are no longer an expression of need, but a celebration of our innate interconnectedness and truth.

Dear Me, Myself and I, may this moment be held as a celebration. A reminder of the ever-residing I Am Presence within my heart. My heart is so full; it overflows into my entire sense of being. Inspiring, uplifting and allowing me to soar. I no longer live in doubt or darkness; my sense of center has illuminated my soul. Fear, resentment, and doubt are no longer welcome here; I choose freedom, I choose love – I am, I am, I am.
